

Karl Matthias Klause is Head of the Economic Section (Minister of the German Embassy in Washington, responsible for economy, trade, business, finance, science, traffic, agriculture.

Before coming to Washington he was Head of Office of Minister of State (deputy foreign minister) Prof. Dr. Maria Böhmer in the Foreign ministry. The remit covered external economic policy and sustainable development issues, cultural relations and education policy, Germany's United Nations and global policies. In terms of world regions, the work focused on the countries of sub-Saharan Africa and the Sahel, Latin America and the Caribbean as well as South and South-East Asia.

Prior to that he was Director for Central Europa in the Foreign ministry. In his time in the Federal Chancellery he was Deputy Director with responsibilities for Asia, Africa, Latin America and the Middle East. He also worked in the Division for Cabinet and Parliamentary Affairs as a liaison diplomat with the German Bundestag. He has served at German Missions in Washington (Spokesperson), London (Cultural Attaché) and Warsaw (Press Attaché). He is a certified Peace Negotiator with Swiss, Norwegian and German training.

He studied Medieval and Modern history, German and English Literature and Philosophy in Münster and at the Free University in Berlin. He is an elected member of the Board of the German Shakespeare Society of 1864.

He is married to Sylvie Teisseire-Klause, they have three children.